WHAT FOOLS THESE MORTALS BE!

JAYZE LYNCH

SNARF Line-up

JAY LYNCH's poignant cover is mute testimony to his expertise in the field of sexuality and its relation to eastern mysticism.

PETER POPLASKI's lead story introduces comicdom's first Polish adventure hero, Alexander Nutsky... a brilliant combination of classic realism and infantile humor.

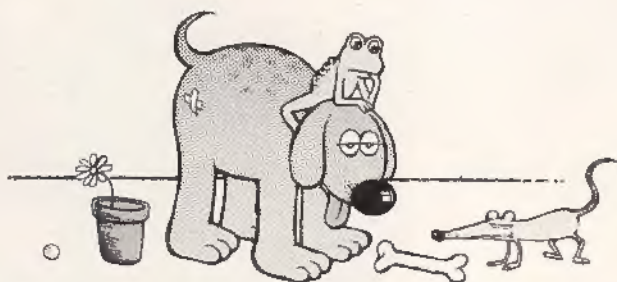

RICHARD "GRASS" GREEN adds "Wild Man," a costumed hero of a more traditional vein who meets the other half of America's finest fighting team, Rubberoy. (Although that might be stretching it a bit.)

TIM BOXELL, that rascally cut-up, returns briefly to Snarf with a typically gross contribution titled, "A Day in the Lab."

DENIS KITCHEN follows with a tantalizing glimpse into the life style of a glamorous pop-hero publisher.

While EVERT GERADTS calls for a startling reappraisal of man's wanton waste of natural resources in a cleverly disguised funny animal story called "Ma Cow."

And WENDEL PUGH's "Crescent City Rollo" is back, this time in an adventure-packed journey to the fabled Cabbage Garden of Tze' Lu' Alcan. Stay tuned.

MIDNIGHT —
on the POLISH frontier.

ho!

ALL HAIL
ALEXANDER NUTSKY,
TRUE HEIR TO POLONIA!!

Returning from the GREAT WARS — that
devil-may-care POLISH
adventurer ALEXANDER NUTSKY, REX, finds his throne usurped by his
evil cousin Ogden!

Sanbitch

Totak!

How goes
the war?

Sire!

The
people
have rebelled
and the Polish
under ground
await commands!

Good!
The siege
must be short!

What's this?
More plans?

No Sire,
the menu!

Ah, Polish Sausage?

Aye, the finest
from the underground!

This must be
God's gift
to kings!

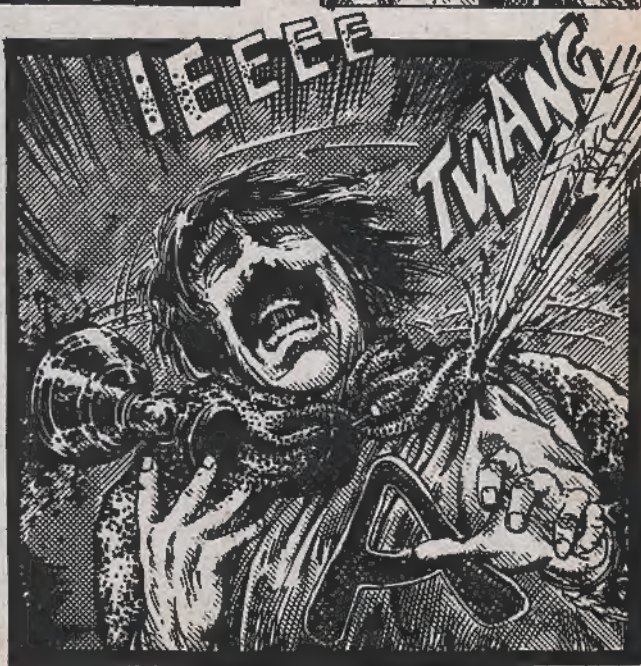

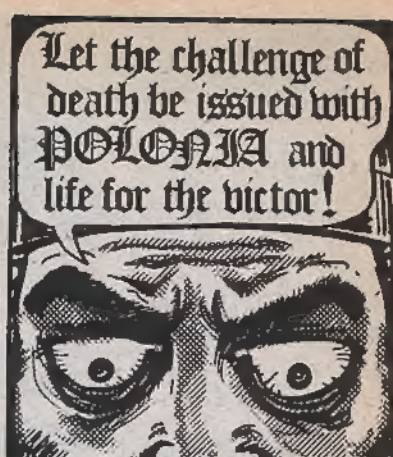

The only thing
better is ...

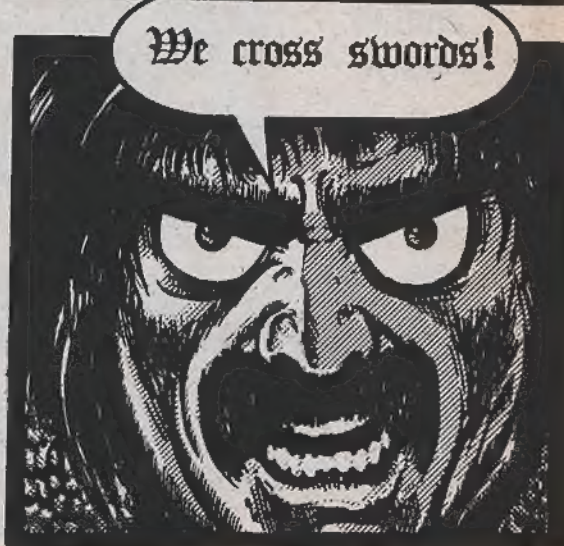

A

SPZDZINSKI,
my true love, here?!

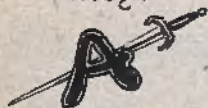

Suddenly, A. Nutsky rips the quivering shaft from his breast!!

Fearlessly,
Nutzsky
launches
his attack
even though
his left arm
is practically
useless.

It is a
grim savage
scene
with the greatest swordsman
of all POLONIA
battling
for life,
for land,
and his
lady.

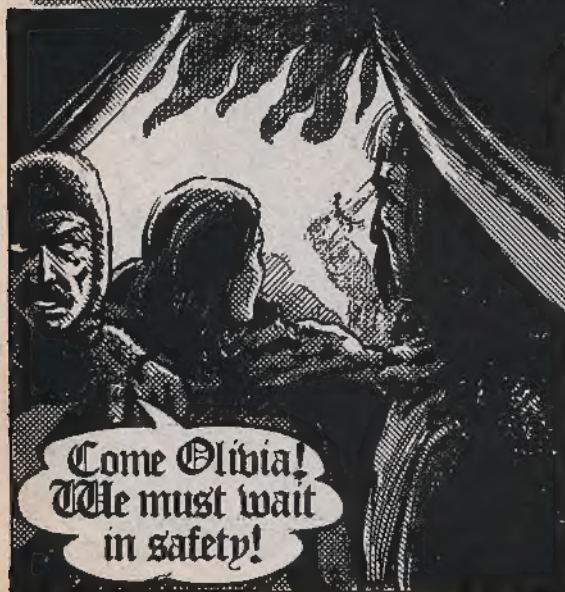

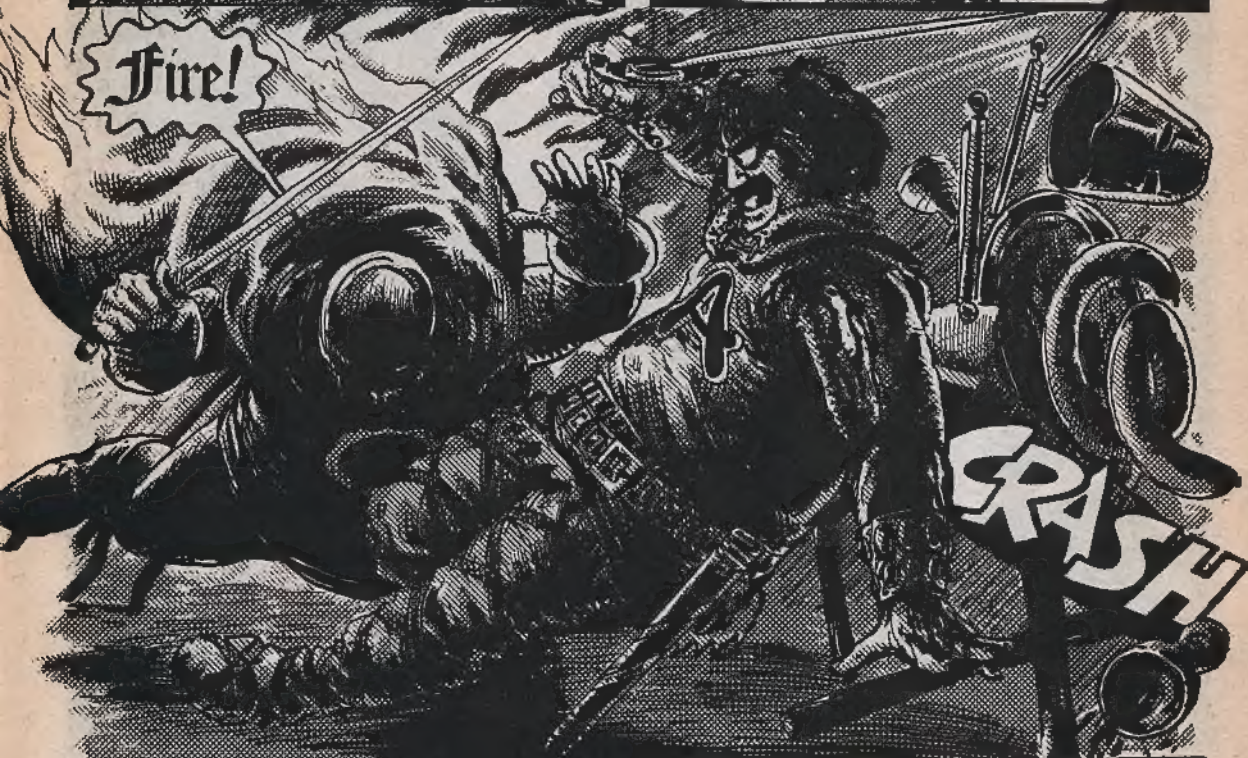

grrr!

Prepare to die, Nutzsky!

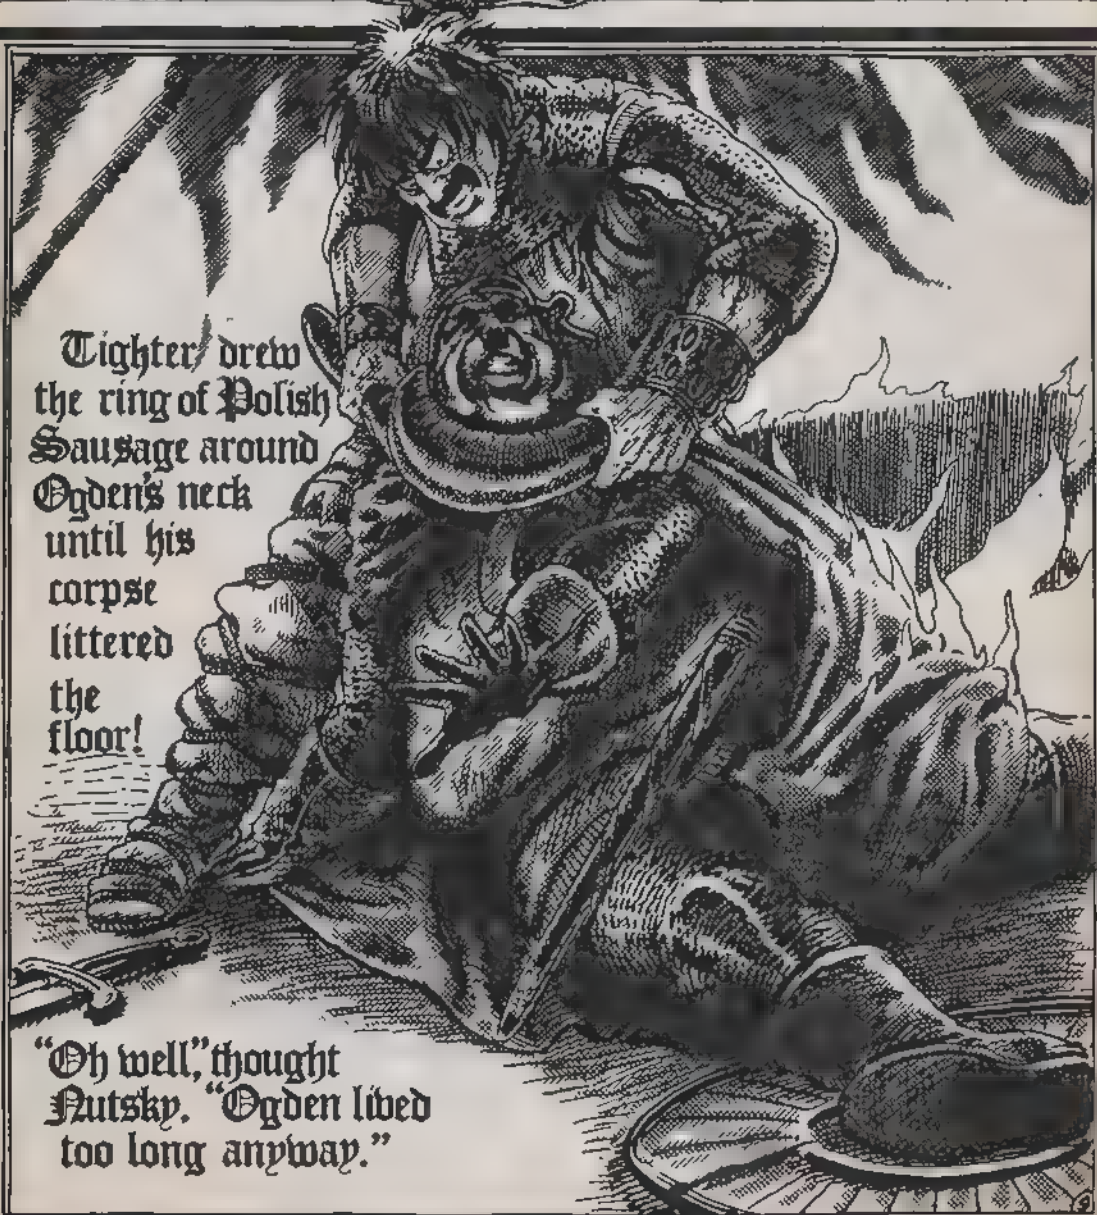

There was no means of escape. Ogden's face flushed red as he turned about, gasping and choking, trying to knock the fighting Polish demon from his back!

Tighter drew the ring of Polish Sausage around Ogden's neck until his corpse littered the floor!

"Oh well," thought Nutsky. "Ogden lived too long anyway."

ALL HAIL THE KING!

Rutsky leaped into the cool night air as the command tent collapsed in a shower of sparks! He turned from the flames to face his cheering friends with a grin!
